Question

1. To ask the how many vehicles it owns or is in control of through arms-length entities and how many are LEZ compliant. How many of those are frontline and deal with emergencies.
- 2, To ask how many vehicles have been converted to LEZ compliance (and how many are front line that deal with emergencies) so far and how much it has cost.
- 3..To ask how many vehicles are yet to be converted to LEZ compliance and how much that will cost.

Answer

The Scottish Ambulance Service is exempt from the ULEZ enforcement, however, our patient conveyance fleet is effectively Ultra Low Emission Zone compliant anyway.

Only very small number of highly specialist vehicles, typically aligned to major incident response, remain in the wider fleet and are not ULEZ compliant. These are all scheduled for replacement in the coming year as suitable replacements become available.
