Question

Glasgow Station South - I understand that there is a new ambulance station planned to replace the existing one. Where can I find more information about those plans? For example the proposed site, the procurement programme etc.

Answer

The review of Glasgow South Station is included within the Service's ongoing workplan of assessing existing properties for their suitability. Initial scoping had taken place of the existing station and site and this is reflected in the Initial Agreement which is attached that was approved by the SAS Board.

The Scottish Government have also approved this Initial Agreement and have asked that we progress to Outline Business Case.

This however, in line with all other Scottish Government health capital projects, has been paused due to the funding constraints. Given the current funding position it is anticipated that it is not likely to be until 2026/27 before development of any business case will be commenced.
